Your World, Our World: Resilient Environment and Sustainable Resource Management for All

Roshni Sharma,
FIG Young Surveyors Volunteer Community
Surveyor Programme VCSP

Bio: Having traversed environmental science and management, human geography, palaeoclimatology and business studies, Roshni is a thought leader, a compassionate disruptor, a connector and someone who gets things done. Following a transformational voyage to Antarctica in 2023 with 86 other global women leaders in STEMM with the Homeward Bound Program, she is dedicating her life to harnessing geospatial to create tangible change for society with a focus on climate action, leadership development and diversity, equity and inclusion. At FrontierSI, Roshni leads industry engagement and geospatial project management of complex, multistakeholder projects with a focus on cutting-edge innovations and commercialisation. She is the youngest Director on the board of Geospatial Council of Australia, and sits on the NSW Government's Board of Surveying & Spatial Information. Roshni founded the Australian SSSI Mentoring Program, which has now extended to FIG as the FIG African Mentoring Program alongside its Australian counterpart. She is Co-Chair of the FIG Climate Compass Task Force alongside Clarissa Augustinus, and is Core Team Lead of the FIG's Volunteer Community Surveyors Program (VCSP).
